"The cause of death of the President has been made plain by the autopsy. It was due primarily to a gunshot wound by a .22-culibre bullet fired at close range, devitalizing the tissues immediately surrounding its tract, so that gangrene of those parts injured—involving the stomach, pancreas, kidney, and other tissues—followed. The toxic products from these devitalized tissues were absorbed, and with the degenerated condition of the muscular tissue of the heart caused death, the thail symptoms being those of exhaustion."

The report then reviews each day's symptoms and developments.

In cases of anticipated septic poisoning the third day is the moment of importance, from the medical standpoint. In the first bulletin of that day, issued at the same of t 20 a. m., the physicians were careful to ay only that the President had passed a fairly good night." the wording of the hairly good night, the wording of the bulletin indicating that the condition of the President was not as good as might have been expected. This and the succeeding bulletins proved to be some of the most important in the whole record.

A careful study of the densits given shows high pulse and temperature, chilly feeling, and restlessness, all of which are significant symptoms yet reighted to detail.

The record of the last day (the eighth) is little more than that of the adminisering of powerful stimulants, at interals of fifteen minutes, to which the paient responded poorly. Periods of unsonsclousness ensued. The wild bulletin wad:

"The President's physicians report that his condition is most serious in spite of vigorous stimulation. The depression continues and is profound. Unless it can be refleved the end is only a question of time."

The succeeding record shows that at 25 p. m. a time was reached when there was no longer any response to stimulants. At 7:40 o'clock the patient was almost pulseless. The record concludes:

'9 p. m.—Heart sounds very feeble. Oxygen continued: slight redex move-ments, and at 2:15 a. m., September 14, 1991, the President died." At 5 o'clock on that day, Saturday, Sep ember 14, the following bulletin was is tember 14, the following bulletin was issued:

"The bullet which struck over the breastbone did not pass through the skin, and did little harm. The other bullet passed through both walls of the stomach near its lower border. Both holes were found to be perfectly closed by the stitches, but the tissue around each hole had become gangrenous. After passing through the stomach the bullet passed into the back walls of the abdomen, hitting and tearing the upper end of the kidney. This portion of the bullet track was also gangrenous, the gangrene involving the pancreas. The bullet has not yet been found. There was no sign of peritonitis or disease of other organs. The heart walls were very thin. There was no evidence of any attempt at repair on the part of nature, and death resulted from the gangrene, which affected the stomach around the bullet wounds as well as the tissues around the further course of the bullet. Death was unavoidable by any surgical or medical treatment and was the direct result of the bullet wound."

One Cent Damages Awarded in an Involved Replevin Suit.

Capital Traction Company May Appeal the Case-A Laborer Seriously Injured on Rock Creek Improvement-A Solar Eclipse Described.

The replevin suit in which were repre nted the Capital Traction Company ames O. Caton & Son, and a contractor dr. Kelly, has terminated in a decision gainst Caton & Son for damages to the unt of 1 cent. The trial developed interesting features. The controcrsy resulted through the sale of the old McDonald house at Grace and Potomac Streets to the Capital Traction Company, through William H. Manogue, attorney The testimeny adduced at the trial show-ed that, though the Capital Traction ompany was practically the purchaser of the property, a record title had not passed up to the time that Manogue, who purchased the old building material, agreed with George T. Dunlop, President of the Capital Traction Company, to tear down and remove the same within stipulated, though not written, time, an pass a reasonable consideration there-. Manogue thereupon sold to Kelly the material in question, and, the ten days stipulated in the agreement expiring, and material not having been removed, Dunlop, it is claimed, resold said material without due process of law, it is said, to Caton & Son. Mr. Manogue, who had been absent from the city, instituted replevin proceedings upon his return before Justice Callan, from whom the cause was removed to Justice Mills. It was shown in the course of the trial that, though Kelly had not removed the material from the ground within ten day greement was entered into, he ned by Caton & Son from dowas restrained by Caton & Son from do-ing so within the specified time in con-sequence of the agreement having re-mained unexecuted for eight or ten days.
